ANNUAL PUBLICATION OF THE STUDENT BODY OF MARY BALDWIN COLLEGE

Staunton, Virginia

VOLUME XV

We Dedicate this

We love and admire her for her versatility which enables her to accomplish successfully the role of wife and mother and, at the same time, teacher and guide. To Mrs. Martha S. Grafton, our Dean of Instruction, we dedicate the 1938 Bluestocking as the manifestation of our appreciation for her unselfish attitude in serving indefatigably the College and the Students.

2 Foreword

THE staff of the 1938 Bluestocking in presenting this annual has made no attempt to be original and has thus carried out no definite theme. Their idea was to present in a pleasant and attractive way the events and happenings of another year at Mary Baldwin. Realizing that this is a change they hope it meets with the approval of the student body.

A scene familiar to all:
the plants at the foot of Chapel steps.

Formal dinners, lectures, and concerts are some of the highlights of the college year.

Book One

There is a spirit present at Mary Baldwin that can be credited largely to the quiet beauty of the college and the surrounding countryside. The buildings manifest in themselves the personality of the entire college--its serenity, noble dignity, and complete amity between students themselves, as well as between faculty and students.

Snaps of Faculty

Book Two

This student body is, as in all other colleges, made up of four classes. Mary Baldwin is different in the respect that there is no unnecessary class distinction. Students in all the classes are encouraged to know each other. This is accomplished socially, intellectually, and athletically. The common interests that each class has with the others hold the students together in a true spirit of loyalty to Mary Baldwin.

Activities Of The Senior Class

Was it yesterday that we were Freshmen, or three years ago? As memories unfold we recall our first days at school—the excitement of meeting roommates—making friends—learning how to co-operate with each other.

During our Sophomore year the traditions of Mary Baldwin began to take root in our hearts. Our activities were varied—our Sophomore-Senior banquet a big success.

Our Junior year found us welded together into a whole—There was the thrill of our entertainment by the Freshmen—the BLUESTOCKING Carnival—the Junior-Senior banquet.

The fall of '37 brought new dignity. Investiture Day was a success in spite of the fact that it rained for the first time in seven years—Then the Senior party and caroling afterwards—January to June went by on wings—exams—the Senior play, the first produced entirely by a Senior class—High tea—graduation, with the traditional Class Day and May Day—Graduates now, we look back upon our four years at Mary Baldwin with a deep sense of thankfulness for high aims and ideals instilled in us. In turn we have left, we hope, a cornerstone upon which future Senior classes may build with security.

Activities Of The Junior Class

Can it be true that we have three of our college years behind us, and that next September we, the class of '39, will return to college to be Seniors? My, how time flies—but no, time stands still: we fly.

As Freshmen, we entered college with the feelings of eaglets who are pushed out of the home-nest to try their wings for the first time. However, our many new experiences, namely, the Junior-Freshman tea, initiations, semester examinations, and the Freshman-Junior Banquet, led to strength and happiness.

In our Sophomore flight eighty-one of our original class participated, and two new-comers joined our flock. That year our class achieved new heights: first, with our "Hollywood Premier" skit at the Athletic Picnic; second, with our Bingo Stand at the BLUESTOCKING Carnival; and third, with our Coronation Banquet for the Seniors.

At the beginning of this, our Junior year, we numbered fifty-six, plus three more new-comers, and we represented fourteen different states. For the second time we received honors on our Athletic Picnic skit—a dramatization of the well-known ballad, "The Martins and the Coys." The realization that we were actually upperclassmen came, first, when we were the hostesses at the Junior-Freshman tea. It was again brought home to us when we were associate-hostesses with the Seniors at "Open House" for our friends from neighboring universities. Our class was in charge of the BLUESTOCKING Carnival this year; also sponsored a "take-off-on-the-faculty" as a chapel program and we co-operated in the attempt to standardize the present Mary Baldwin ring. We were honor guests for the first time at the Junior-Freshman Valentine Banquet which was given at the Stonewall Jackson Hotel. Our last tribute to the Seniors was the Junior-Senior Banquet, at which time the 1938 BLUESTOCKING was presented. Then came Class Day and Commencement, and the thought that it was our last, as spectators. And so our third flight ended.

With wings strong and almost mature, we will return in September to take the fourth and last trial flight. Then in the following June we, the class of 39, will go out to try our wings in the great unknown.

Activities of the Sophomore Class

A snapshot view of this second and even better year at Mary Baldwin: Began substantially by Sophomores meeting trains and assuring Freshmen of what was to come. Not long after this was "Freshman Day" when "turn about was fair play" and this time we did the "dirty" work.

With everyone still in vacation spirit, classes were resumed with somewhat awkward silence, studies met with either approval or disapproval—on the student's part.

Many memories, and pleasant ones too, enrich the general atmosphere of college-life: that memorable Athletic Association picnic when we presented a puppet show, our talent displayed at the BLUESTOCKING carnival, the pride we took when a Sophomore got a lead in "Fresh Fields" and when a few of our clan actually were eligible to go Christmas caroling. After the holidays were exams, the inevitable, and "Fancy Dress" for many. Dr. Taylor's tea, given in February, was an unusually lovely one. The Sophomore-Senior banquet went off without a hitch, with every guest happier and wiser in the ways of entertainment. Next there was Class-day, followed by May-day, in which most of us were participants.

May this glimpse into the inner sanctity prove interesting, but not too illuminating, for we, the Sophomores, must retain at least a part of the mystery that cloaks us in elusive charm.

I feel that tribute is due "our Class," which by its inspiration and zeal and sponsor has made such a year possible.

Activities of the Freshman Class

It's no end of fun for us Freshmen to look back over this eventful year. We have memories, both humorous and serious, of our first months away from the doting care of our parents.

We all agree that the first year of the class of '41 started at home with much worry and flurry. When we arrived we were practically rushed off our feet by people doing nice things for us. There was a tea on the terrace which initiated our Northern girls to the famous Southern hospitality. We were introduced to the faculty then and again formally at a reception.

Our big sisters had found us by this time and we were taken in hand like lost sheep. The "Get Acquainted Party" proved that everyone had learned enough names, faces, and places to really have a good time. About then, too, we discovered our differences in pronunciation: it was the topic of conversation for a longer time than we like to remember.

The inspiring Y. W. C. A. Candlelight Service was a contrast to the horrors of Freshman Day. There's not one of us who doesn't shudder to remember the upper classmen at Rat Court.

We were acclimated finally when the Senior Investiture came along to fill us with noble thoughts and resolutions.

Not long after the Junior Tea we began to count the days until Christmas. Before December 16th we amassed literally piles of presents to help Santa with the mountain children.

Back at school again, no one had much time to remember how perfect vacation had been because exams were upon us. There was much burning of the "midnight-oil," but all our hard work certainly made us appreciate the free week-end.

February was marked by the Freshman-Junior Banquet on Valentine night. The color scheme was appropriately red and numerous corsages showed that certain fair young lads had remembered the day. The Spring House Party was memorable in too many ways to enumerate.

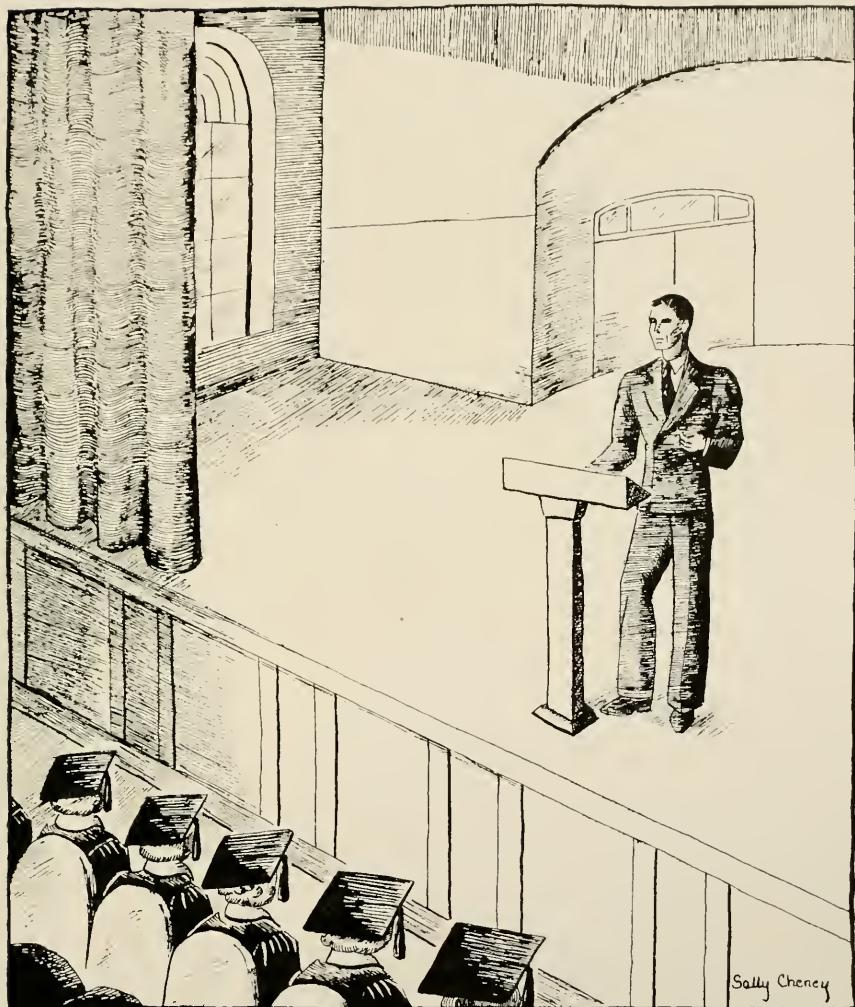

Some of our favorite memories are: the Athletic Picnic—Joyce and Camille cutting up—Chapel Hall doing the same, and sometimes better—that cute Culver girl—our twin triplets, Anne, Jane, and Sarah—blind dates—Phyllis in the play—Gen's good looks—our athletic ability, especially in basketball!—Iris' personality, and last, saved as best, the Club.

It adds up to a perfect year and we all say that our ideal is to spend three more happy years at Mary Baldwin.

Book Three

Life at Mary Baldwin centers largely around the activities that the college offers. The publications, athletics and various clubs, including languages, music, science, drama, art and others, constitute the activities. These outside interests aid in teaching the students how to work together more efficiently and at the same time how to profit most from these extra-curricular activities.

A Message from the President

Eight years ago Student Government was first installed at Mary Baldwin College and since then has become a vital part of the college life.

As an association, Student Government has many objectives in mind. From the first it has concerned itself with the growth of students—mentally, physically, and spiritually. We feel that each one of these hopes has been realized and each one of these aspirations gained.

While Student Government gives much, it also requires a great deal. It demands loyalty, tolerance, sincerity and devotion. Its aim lies in creating women of ability and women of character.

Through Student Government membership each girl has come to know, to understand and to love Mary Baldwin, and to those who will follow us in future years we say—as long as there is Mary Baldwin there shall be love and devotion! “And ever we our faith and love will pledge thee, so, Mary Baldwin, hail and farewell.”

A Message from the President

The purpose of the Y. W. C. A. is for a three-fold development: mental, spiritual, and social. We feel that these three phases make for a well-rounded personality.

It is our desire to form close friendships with all girls so that they may turn to us in times of need. Since the spirit of the Y. W. C. A. is love and service, we deem it a great privilege to aid each girl in developing greater strength of character, nobler ideals and a deeper faith in Christ.

The club has taken as its main project for the year, the establishment of a circulating art gallery for the college and also has established a fund which shall be used to buy pictures for the various reception rooms of the college.

"The Art of Living" has been the central theme for the meetings held each month during the past year. Outside speakers as well as members of the club and faculty have contributed to the discussions held throughout the year.

The Dramatic Club for the year 1937-1938 presented "Fresh Fields," by Ivar Novello and a spring production consisting of four one-act plays by prominent playwrights. The purpose of the club is to afford the student some training in the principles of drama and the art of presenting dramatic literature.

Club programs are made up of skits, pantomimes, one-act plays, monologues, and other forms of interpretation which have direct connection with dramatic production. The social life is not forgotten, a fact made evident during refreshment hour following programs and at the big annual party which is usually a very informal picnic.

The Mary Baldwin Glee Club is composed of those girls interested in singing. The purpose of this organization is to promote a further interest in this branch of music and to create an enjoyment in the field of choir and Glee Club work. The Glee Club does not require that a member be a student of voice. However, she must have the ability to understand the rudiments of music and have a pleasing voice quality. These characteristics combined with co-operation aid in the building up of a fine chorus.

This year the club has presented an excellent program. In addition to the usual group of concerts annually given at the college, the Glee Club has participated in several programs in collaboration with a few of the neighboring men's colleges. The club has found these concerts to be very successful and more extensive work in this field is to be continued from year to year.

This year the club boasts a large membership of both active members and associate members. At the meetings the members keep in touch with all of the branches of science so that they do not become narrow or limited in their interests and work.

The International Relations Club was founded in 1935 for the purpose of furthering interest in world affairs and in preparing the members to be broad-minded and well-rounded citizens, keenly alive and interested in problems of international scope. This year the club consisted of fifty members. Membership is restricted to those students who are interested in history, government, and current events.

During the year, with the aid of Dr. Mary Swan Carroll, the club has been able to bring many noted and interesting speakers and authorities in world affairs to its meetings.

Little Sisters' Club

Tradition plays a large part in the life of every Mary Baldwin girl. Such a club as the Little Sisters is a tradition in itself and for that reason has won a place of honor on the campus.

Its members consist of those girls who now have or have had sisters attending Mary Baldwin. These girls are bound together by a sense of kinship and by a common interest in the ideals they seek to perpetuate.

An outstanding event for the Little Sisters was on the occasion of Miss Baldwin's birthday on October 4, when a luncheon was given by the alumnae to which they were invited. Social events play the largest part in the life of the club.

The club takes pride in its origin and seeks to pass on to future Little Sisters something of the ideals and wisdom they have learned here.

Granddaughters' Club

The Granddaughters' Club is closely akin to the Little Sisters' Club in its membership and purpose. Those girls whose mothers or grandmothers once attended Mary Baldwin comprise the membership.

The background of the club is a source of justifiable pride to the present members who see in it opportunities and obligations to fulfill and live up to. Such an organization has shared in making the history of Mary Baldwin. It is the ideal of the Granddaughters to uphold the traditions already established and to pass them on to the girls who will follow.

The luncheon given by the Alumnae on October 4, Miss Baldwin's birthday, was one of the important events of the year for the Granddaughters.

The Granddaughters have a trust to fulfill and it is their purpose to do so.

Among the more special projects of the club for the year was the table-decoration contest at the annual Christmas dinner in December. Members of the club furnished hand-made place cards for this affair, and also for the Birthday dinner which the club sponsored in May. At the February meeting, the club enjoyed the colored moving pictures of English and South Carolina gardens. In the spring, trips were taken to gardens near Charlottesville and those in and around Staunton.

This year, 1937-38, marks the ninth anniversary of the Day Student Club of Mary Baldwin College. The chief purpose of the club is that of promoting active participation of the Day Students in all the college activities. The President of the club is always an ex-officio member of the Student Government Council.

The new members were welcomed into the club at the first meeting in September. The total membership this year is seventy-three. In October the club entertained the college faculty with a Hallowe'en dinner party. In March, an "open house" was held for the Resident students at the Stonewall Jackson Hotel. Miss Fannie Strauss, sponsor of the club and a former day student, entertained the members at a tea, given in her home in April. Annually, in May, the girls from the senior classes of Beverley Manor and Lee High Schools are invited to tea, at which time they are shown the campus and buildings of the college.

JEAN DIESCHER.....Editor

The Student Handbook is revised and published each year. It is under the supervision of the President of the Student Body. She, with the assistance of the Student Council and the Dean, makes the changes in the book which are necessary from time to time. The book states the rules and regulations for students at the college.

The 1937-1938 Handbook won first place in the Virginia Intercollegiate Press Association Contest which was held in Lexington, October, 1937.

Bluestocking

The BLUESTOCKING, the annual of Mary Baldwin College, is published in the spring by the Junior Class. The staff consists of Juniors with the exception of one representative each from the Sophomore and Freshman Classes. The Editor and Business Manager are elected by the Student Body. The staff is chosen by them with the aid of the Sponsor.

Miss Fannie Strauss for a number of years has ably fulfilled the position of faculty advisor and sponsor. Without her untiring efforts and her patience the BLUESTOCKING could not be the annual that it is.

To the Class of '38: we hope that this book will always symbolize to you that intangible spirit of the college and will recall to you, in years to come, the pleasant associations and activities which are such a vital part of your college life.

For the student body, we hope that in our efforts we have reached in some measure our goal—the portrayal of another year at Mary Baldwin.

This year Campus Comments has seen many changes both in style and make-up. It has tried to make use of all helpful suggestions from the student body, and has seen the addition of many new features. It has, throughout the year, attempted to serve as the voice of all student activities.

In October, Betty Boyd, editor, and Frances Rue, managing editor, attended the Associated Collegiate Press Convention in Chicago and brought back many new ideas which were put into effect almost immediately.

Campus Comments, published weekly, tries to cover all types of news of interest to every member of the student body. It encourages student contributions and helps to create an interest in journalism but above all, it strives to interest the students in campus and world events.

Miscellany

The Miscellany is the Mary Baldwin literary magazine. It is published four times a year, and includes both student and faculty contributions. A conspicuous effort is made to avoid the stereotyped, "themy" sort of article, but rather to present the college girl's intimate conception of composition in its every variety. In this fashion, creative and individual writing is encouraged, and a more widespread interest is stimulated.

The Editor-in-Chief and the Business Manager of this publication are elected by vote of the student body, and they, with the advice of their predecessors and the two faculty sponsors, Miss Mims and Dr. Vandiver, appoint the remainder of the staff members.

For several successive years the Miscellany has been awarded an All-American Honor rating, and this must be considered a tribute not to the editors, but to all the contributors.

Book Five

A phase of college life is manifested through athletics that does not appear in any other activity. Unselfish co-operation and true sportsmanship are necessary in making the wide variety of college sports successful. Both of these qualities have aided in making athletics at Mary Baldwin gain the highest degree of success. In the achievement of these some of the outstanding characters in the college have been discovered.

RUTH PARISH
President of Athletic Association

A Message from the President

The Athletic Association is an association to which all the girls of the student body belong.

A council is elected to assist as leaders of the various sports, who with the director of Physical Education, plan and carry out the program for the year. This council tries to encourage the students to participate in the athletic program. Interest in this program is first stimulated in the gym classes.

The Association stands for much more than athletic ability. It tries to establish in every girl the habit of wholesome, physical recreation. It tries also to instil in the daily habits of the girls sportsmanship, self control, co-operation, and sincerity.

The Association, moreover, endeavors to combine athletics with social activities. This is accomplished through picnics, dances, entertainments, and various other programs.

With these principles the Association aims to establish in the students a wholesome sports program that will remain with them after their college days.

Hockey

For the third year the Juniors have won the championship in hockey; of this they are very proud.

Hockey is the first sport of the season, played in the fall. Many of the Freshmen have never played it before, but this does not discourage them, as they turn out to be some of our best players. The games are played at the athletic field not far from the campus.

There were two Freshmen, seven Juniors, and three Seniors on the Varsity team that went to Harrisonburg to the Hockey Convention of many of the southern schools.

From the members of four class teams a Varsity is chosen. They receive letters at the Athletic Banquet in May.

Basketball is our winter sport and comprises the greater part of January, February, and March. Practices begin during mid-term exams, but in spite of this many turn out to play—recreation is needed then as well as any other time.

The greatest competition this year was between the Freshmen and the Juniors. Both teams had good players and good spirit and a great deal of enthusiasm was put into their games.

The climax of the basketball season is the Faculty-Senior game, which is anticipated by all and enjoyed greatly.

Baseball is the third major sport of the season and is played only in the spring; except for one big game early in the fall. This game takes place annually at the picnic given at Crafton Park, and is played between the faculty and the students, giving rise to much curiosity and excitement.

However, it is in the spring that real practices begin. Inter-class games are played and a Varsity is chosen from the four class teams.

Many come out for this sport encouraged by the warm weather and sunny skies.

The Monogram Club, an honorary athletic organization, is made up of those girls who have earned six-hundred and fifty points in the athletic program during the year. They are awarded the Mary Baldwin College monogram at the Athletic Banquet in May.

In the fall the club, accompanied by their sponsor, Miss Powell, held a picnic at Gypsy Hill Park. When membership has been attained it is permanent, but to reach the six hundred and fifty point entrance requirement, the girls must be active in the various phases of athletic activities all year.
